The Election and the Candhian On the first page of 'o day's Sus will be found the names of the persons in nomination by the several parties, for State Officers—Judges, Senators and Assemblymon—throughout the State, so far as it was possible to get them securately. In looking over the list we recognise many well known members of all parties, whe have held positions of honor and responsibility, and discharged the duties devolving upon them with credit to themselves and advantage to the public. But the large majority are perors, who, probably for the first time come before the people for their suffrage. The candidates for State officers on both sides, (we say both sides because the third party has selected from each of the two others,) are mostly men known and respected no less for their political integrity, than for their private moral worth. The judiciary nominations so far as we can judge, have been made with care and a proper a preciation of the importance of the positions to be filled. With regard to members of the legislative branch of the government, there are some among the lists that we know and in whom we have confidence. There are others who, though perhape not less known, are less entitled to be raised to the position sought. Parties are most apt to come short on making their selections for the Legislature. In this city particularly, of late years, our delegations to Albany have been in the main of persons wholly unqualified for the place. The result has been that most of the legislation, was, to give it the mildest form of expression, a series of blunders. This is in fact the fountain from whence issues that resistless torrent of taxation that would paralyze and prostrate the energies of any other city in the union.

Until some movement, therefore, is made, which shall bring tegether and unite in it the true, honest and intelligent men of all parties, and until the right sort of men shall permit their names to be used in such a movement, there can be little hope of improvement, either in the laws or law-makers.

With regard to candidates, voters will do well to disregard party ties, sufficiently to select from the list such as are known to be honest and faithful and possess the best qualifications. The general political issues at stake now, are slight, compared with the importance of reform in our State and city finances. We are, undoubtedly, a progressive people, but the progress has been much greater in the way of taxation, than by wholesome legislation. The tone and sentiment of our people is in favor of reform in these mat. ters, and therefore, the people should look well to it, that they send men to Albany who will truly and faithfully represent them.

More Zeal than Wisdom. Some evidently half crazy fellow, with more money than brains, is proposing to offer a re-ward of ten thousand dollars, for the delivery of J. R. GIDLINGS, in Richmond, Va. The following appeared in the Richmond Whig:-

JOHUA R. Guddins having openly declared himself a Tratter in a fecture at Paisadophia, on the 28th of October, and there being no process, strange to say, by which he can be brought to justice, I propose to be one of one hundred to raise $10,000 for his past delivery in Richmond, or $5,000 for the production of his head. I do not regard this proposition, extraordinary as it may at first seem, either unjust or unwere(i). The law of dod and the Constitution of his country both condemn him to death. For earlistactory reasons, I withhold my name from the public, but it is in the hands of the Either of the Richmond Whig. There will be no difficulty, I am sure, in raising the $10.00, upon a reasonable prospect of getting the said Giddinards ot this city.

Tur U. S. steamship Cahawba, from Havana, Oct. 20th, arrived here on Saturday morning. The news is not very important. It is stated that the Government of Spain, has annulled, so far as regards the United States Mal's Steamships, the order issued in August last, requiring consular certificates to acall cargo for Havana, it however remains in force with all other strangers and sailing vessels The lorg litigated case of the American bark J. J. Cobb had been decided, and the vessel declared derelict, not a slaver. Government will not require United States mal' steamers to exhibit consular cortificates of manifests of cargo for Cuban ports. Two vessels from Portland had got into difficulty with respect to customs dues. An Havana letter of the 30th says there is a report of a conspiracy or something of that character having been discovered amongst certain military officers and the soldiery at Matanzas Various avrests are understood to have taken place, but no further particulars have been permitted to reach the public ear. The city was very healthy. Sugars were quiet in the market, with one hundred and thirty thousand boxes on hand in Havans and at Matanzas. Freights were steady at last advised rates. Exchange on New York was at from four and a half to five and a balf per cent premium.

The Election Returns.

The Superintendents of the several telegraph lines in this State have, with their usual liberality, placed their wires on election night at the service o the New York City and New York State Associated Press, and it is probable that through the instrumen tality of the wires, and the persevering efforts of the telegraph operators, editors and politicians, the whole press of the State will be able to publish the general result on Wednesday morning. The Agent of the Associated Press has addressed the following circular to editors, agents, and telegraph operators

Even Esquin aux cannot live there. With regard to provisions, you will observe that I mentioned choselate, ten, and tobacco. It is clear that these alone will not custain life. You are doubtless aware that an unresually large quantity of solid animal food is mecessary, even to men in vigorous health, to cold climates. Had the country been espable of sustaining natives, not one of these traces would have remained for us to gather up. I do not think further records would be found by a second expedition over the same ground. You will observe that my first care was to reach Montreal Island and Point Ogle, where American's a great torminated, and, after re-examining those positions, to complete the search from thence to where the lost people landed from their ships. The greater part of this pain/ully interesting route was gone over three times—twice by Lieut. Honson, and once by myself. The natives repeatedly told us that all the white people had died.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH. - Shortly after two Mysterious Death.—Shortly after two o'clock, yesterday morning, a young woman, named Pardeau Marcus, was found lying insensible on the sidewalk in front of her residence, No. 2 Rossevelt street, and was conveyed to the 4th ward station house, where Dr. Jounstons was called to attend her. On making an examination, the physician found a deep wound on the left side of the head, and another irifling wound near it. These wounds were dressed and the patient was taken to the New York Hospital, where she died soon after being admitted. On the stones, near where she lay when found, blood was discovered. The brother of the decessed stated to the poice, that his sister had retired the night previews at her usual hour, and he was not aware of her having left the house until several hours later, when he was informed that she was lying insensible at the police station. In the absence of any information respecting her, being found wounded in the street, it is presumed that she had raised the window sash for some purpose, and accidentally fell out of the window. The neighborhood is infested with rowdies, but her person bere no marks of having been violated; and there seems to be an absonce of any motive to assault her. Coroner Jookman was notited, and will hold an inquest upon the body to-day. Deceased was a native of Ireland, and 25 years of age.

A Boarding House Libelled.—Marie E. Hommer vs. Jacob Meyer—This was an action for libel on the plaintiffs boarding-house at 130 Greenwich street. The plaintiffs house is an emigrant boarding house, and the defendant had visited there for some time previous to the commencement of this action. The complaint set forth that the defendant had published in several of the German papers of the city certain statements in derogation to her character and the reputation of her house. By reason of the injury to her business because of that publication, the plaintiff daims damages in the sum of $1000. As the plaintiff had stiffed generally the injuries received by her and her house in consequence of that publication, the defendant now asked that she be compelled to state and set forth specifically site particular boarder or boarders who was, or were influenced by the publication, and the amount of damages suffered by the loss of any or each. The motion was denied, the Court holding that the matters were sufficiently explicitly stated.

A MAN WITH TWO WIVES AND THE CONSEQUENCES.—PATRICE ETAN was brought before Justice Cornwell on Saturday, on the charge of having abandened his wife Carmains for the last month, and left her without means of support; added to this, Patrick was charged with bigamy, the officer (White, of the lat Precinct) having found him living with one Frances Livingstons, at No. 36 Water street, to whom he said he was married. It appeared upon investigation, that some six years ago Carmains left her brisband in the city of Hudson, where they had for some time resided. Since that period, until within the last month, he had not heard from her, and as he said, supposed she was dead, when unexpectedly she made her appearance at his home in Water street. Payrick furnished her with means sufficient to take care of herself until the matter could be finally arranged.

The charge of abandonment could not be sustained, and the next and most important matter was to clear up the charge of bigamy. Carmains felt sure he could not escape, as the first marriage had already been proved, and officers were dispatched for Miss FARNY LAYINGSTONE—she now becoming a witness to prove the second marriage. When she was put ucen her examination, she unhesitatin, by declared, that although she had been living with Payrick declared, that although she had been living with Payrick Gressveral years, they were never married. The consequence of this statement was the immediate discharge of the accused, who left the Court closely followed by CaTHABLES RYAN. Who, upon reaching the street, made a violent assault upon the head of her ungrateful spouse with a stone, knocking him senseless to the ground. Carmains was taken off by the by-standers, (a large crowd having collected by this time) and Payranck was helped into the cars by his counse', and in the excitement and confusion which ensued, made his escape.
